ANDOVER MASSACHUSETTS, JULY 12, 1951

PRICE, 5 CENTS

This is the life on any of these hot, sultry days as this group of youngsters at Pomp's pond bathing beach can assure you when Old Sol is trying to toast you to a nice rich brown as he sends the thermometer soaring into the 90's. The beach at Pomp's has had a record number of bathers in the past week and attendance figures are going up daily.

5000 Tax Bills Put Into Mail

Approximately 5000 tax bills went out this week from the office of Tax Collector James P. Christie. Of this number 1000 were for personal property taxes and 4000 were on real estate.

The bills are payable at the new rate of $40 a thousand, the largest in the history of the town. They are due on or before October 1.

Water At Pomp's OK For Bathing

Analysis of the water at Pomp's pond bathing beach by the state department of public health showed it to be of suitable bacteriological quality for bathing purposes.

This report was contained in a letter to the board of health in response to a request sent the state board last June asking that the state department analyze the water. This is done annually because the beach is opened to the public.

In its report the state department said: "Pomp's pond was last examined in 1950. At that time the department stated that the bathhouse facilities were found to be in satisfactory condition and the results of the bacterial examination of a sample of water collected from the pond at the municipal bathing beach showed that it was of suitable bacteriological quality for bathing."

"The recent examination disclosed conditions similar to those found in 1950 and the results of the bacterial examinations of two samples of water collected from the pond at the extremities of the bathing beach show that it continued to be of suitable bacteriological quality for bathing."

Youngsters Throng To Playgrounds

Summer activities on all play centers are in full swing this week with a general increase in attendance.

Handicraft classes are being conducted on all playgrounds in addition to the regular schedule of games that take up the interest of a great many youngsters.

At the West Center playground this week the class is working on jewelry with the prospect of all boys and girls taking part in a doughnut eating contest Friday afternoon.

A hat show was held yesterday afternoon at Indian Ridge with a number of grotesque entries causing a lot of fun. The handicraft class is working this week on jewelry.

Youngsters at the Central playground took part in a scavenger hunt yesterday afternoon and will highlight their week's program Friday afternoon with a boxing exhibition. This ought to draw a few additional spectators as the leather-pushers exchange swings and jabs. Jewelry is being done by the handicraft class.

Ballardvale with its 300 registrants is busy every day and evening. Softball and volley ball are going on almost endlessly while the class in handicraft is working on gimps for bracelets and lanyards.

Shawsheen activities are enjoyed by a large number of boys and

Finish Teaching Year In Japan

Two Andover public school teachers who were granted a leave of absence for a year to teach in the American schools in Japan have returned.

Miss Florence McCarthy of 22 High st., and Miss Louise Sherman of Shawsheen Village completed their teaching assignments there last month and arrived in Andover within the last few days. Both will resume their duties in the local schools next September.

B P W Completes Street Tarring

The board of public works has just about completed its summer schedule of street tarring during which time about 78,000 gallons of tarvia have been applied to more than a score of local streets.

About $16,000 out of the highway appropriations was set aside for the work this year which includes the application of new tar surfaces as well as tar patching.

Some of the latest streets to be done are, Walnut avenue, Cabot road, Punchard avenue, Carmel road, North, Pine, Brook, High, Morton, Pasho, Summer, Salem, Webster, Chandler and Chestnut streets, Johnson, Coolidge, Lupine, Red Spring, Jenkins, Boston and Woodland roads, and Washington avenue.

Summer Book Loan Privilege

Many readers are taking advantage of the summer loan privilege extended each year at the library. Under this vacation loan, any book or books which have been in the library at least a year, may be borrowed for an extended time to become due on Sept. 15.

Summer hours at the library are in force, and will continue through Labor day. The week-days will be the same as during the winter for adult borrowers, from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. On Saturdays, however, the library will close at 1 p. m.

School Auditorium Being Improved

In order to improve the acoustical conditions in the auditorium of the Shawsheen school workmen have started to install a sound-proofing tile there.

Persons in the balcony and in the rear of the hall have complained on many occasions that they could not hear speakers from the stage during the many programs that have been presented in the school.

The application of the acoustical tile being made now is expected to overcome this difficulty.

Andover Girls Enjoy Life At Camp Maude Eaton

Several Andover residents are signed up for their stay at Camp Maude Eaton this season. The girls sleep in tents, cook their breakfast and supper out-of-doors, enjoy boating, swimming, canoeing, nature, archery, handicraft and general sport activities.

The camp was named after an Andover resident, Mrs. Maude Eaton, in 1940, and her husband, the late James Eaton presented the camp with an annual gift until his death. Since that time, her son, Atty. James H. Eaton, has presented the camp with a canoe in 1949 called The Silver Swan, and another in 1950 named by vote of the campers, The James Eaton, and his gift this year has been the installation of a hot water heater.

Campers from Andover during the week of July 1-7 were: Priscilla Ann Ball, and Heather Rodericks of Troop 66; Sandra Nadeau, Christine Sutton and Marjorie Swenson of Troop 72; and Jane Frances Young of Troop 68. Christine Sutton completed her tests for the girl scout swimmer's badge during her stay.

Campers planning to attend camp for other sessions are: July 15-28: Ruth Engel of Troop 22; Marilyn Haseltine, Cora Petit and Norma Heseltine of Troop 62; Mary Taylor, Patricia Smalley, Betty Ann Lumenello, Norma Kibbee, Jane Hall and Margaret Bouleau of Troop 19. July 29-Aug 11: Carol Ann McCarthy and Linda McCarthy of Troop 24; and Lilly Disbrow of Troop 22.

The camp is directed by Miss Genevieve M. Cahill of Lawrence; Mrs. Walter Dean is business manager, Mrs. Perry Cranston is cook and Mrs. Charles Higgins is the camp nurse.

Miss Mary P. Hennessey is director of the waterfront activities. She attended Camp Kiwanis aquatic school on a scholarship awarded by the American Red Cross, Lawrence chapter. Other staff members are: Misses Eileen Kattar, Lena Wholey, Gertrude Denault, Susan Bistany, Thelma Greenburg, Teresa Haykal, Jane Broderick, Emma Walsh, Martha Seymour, Sandra Finkelstein, Gioia Ciribaldi, Glenna Pofcher and Shirley Sheipers. The camp aides are Claudette Charest and Catherine McPhee.

More than 7500 people swarmed to Pomp's pond bathing beach last week to relax and enjoy the additional facilities that have been provided for summer recreation there by the Andover Recreation committee and the beach staff.

The recent hot weather may have helped to swell the attendance as many went to the beach to get relief from the heat. They were joined by numerous family groups and others who enjoy taking their lunches and using the fireplaces and tables conveniently arranged in the area for picnickers.

While the large outdoor grille and several tables and benches are well patronized in the shady area of the beach hundreds are enjoying the cooling waters of the pond while six well trained lifeguards are keeping a watchful eye on them.

In addition to the recreational activities to be enjoyed at Pomp's a visitor can derive benefit from the educational program carried on there. Four of the guards at the pond have been qualified by the American Red Cross as water safety instructors.

These four guards are giving instruction to the children in all phases of swimming and water safety. Swimming classes are held almost daily.

Instructor Robert McCabe holds classes for non-swimmers three times weekly, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday at 2 p. m. Intermediate swimming classes are held at 3 p. m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday under the tutelage of Guard Peter Dunlop. Classes for the swimmer and the advanced swimmers are held twice each week, Mondays and Thursdays at 11 a. m. under the guidance of Guard Richard Kydd.

Water safety comprises the second phase of the water program. On Mondays and Fridays of each week several youngsters receive instructions in junior life saving. These lessons are given at 10 a. m. Classes in senior life saving are held Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6:30 p. m. Bancroft Fredrickson is instructor for both.

To Install Meters On Punchard Ave.

The board of public works early this week had a new tar surface applied on Punchard avenue in preparation to the installation of parking meters there.

The new surface will be painted soon and when this is finished the new meters, already purchased by the town and now in storage, will be installed by the department.

It is expected that the meters will do away with the complaints made by residents about the all-day parkers on the street.

We Observe The Fourth

Andover observed the glorious Fourth of July in a truly safe, sane and sedate way.

The 175th anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, celebrated last week throughout the nation, went unnoticed here. About the only thing stirring in Andover was a nice breeze.

With world conditions as they are today the people all over the United States should appreciate more than ever the significance of that noble instrument, yet the town took no recognition of the day or its meaning.

A year ago thousands turned out to take part in the program sponsored by the police and firemen. That outpouring gave evidence that many townspeople prefer to avoid the heavy holiday traffic by remaining at home to enjoy some local activity which they and their families can patronize.

In recent years the old-time observance of the Fourth with its bonfire, ringing of bells, horrors, oratory and fireworks, with the exception of last year, has been eliminated from the local scene. The spirit of the Fourth which commemorates the dedication of this nation to the proposition that all men have the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" seems to have been buried in Andover's past.

Sentiment expressed in various local quarters during the past weeks favors some official recognition of our country's Independence day. Andover did its share in the creation of this free nation and today needs the stimulus of some civic-minded group to revive some of the patriotic spirit of 1776.

You cannot possibly have a broader basis for government than that which includes all people, with all their rights in their hands, and with an equal power to maintain their rights.—William Lloyd Garrison.

The love of liberty is the love of others; the love of power is the love of ourselves.—William Hazlett.

The only reward of virtue is virtue; the only way to have a friend is to be one.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Protect Your Gums

Gum diseases affect about eighty per cent of the adult population. Frequently, such conditions are brought on by deposits of tartar; this irritates the gums and an infection occurs which may spread to other parts of the body. By having the dentist treat infected gums early, it is usually possible to cure them and to prevent the spread of the infection.

Today, modern dental science has developed new measures to combat decay and has introduced improved methods to help control pain and infection. Periodic visits to the dentists for cleanings, examinations, and necessary treatment are the best safeguards against serious conditions which may affect the teeth and the mouth.

Band concert tonight in the square.

Many Andover people visited the 8th Reg. M. V. M., camp at Boxford this week.

Walter Rhodes is improving the interior of his store and the addition of electric lights and an electric fan made it very attractive.

Essex street and portion of square has just been macadamized by Supt. Lovejoy, aided by the new steam roller.

While alighting from an electric car at Chapel ave., Wednesday, Principal Pettee of the University school of Cleveland, Ohio, was knocked down and injured by a careless bicyclist.

Episcopal churches of Andover and North Andover combine to hold their annual church picnic at Canobie Lake.

J. H. Campion of Andover is one of the several grocers organized to do business under the name of Currier & Campion.

Allen F. Abbott of Andover chosen superintendent of the grounds and buildings at Abbot academy.

Many townspeople have left for numerous vacation spots, some to remain for the season.

25 Years Ago—July 1926

Andover residents were treated to a very quiet Fourth of July. Ballardvale was center of attraction over the holiday with fine program of events.

Playground opens at rear of John Dove and Stowe schools with large attendance. Instructors are Miss Irma Swain of Boston and James Jordan of Lawrence, both well-fitted for their work.

To facilitate remodeling the building, the Memorial Hall library takes up temporary headquarters in a store at 15 Barnard st.

Bathing suits are needed for swimming at Pomp's pond which opened officially a couple of weeks ago. Police to keep an eye open for offenders.

Gordon Coutts and Abbot Cheever, both former P. H. S. athletes, win prizes in field day events at Methuen, held as part of the town's 200th anniversary celebration.

Lovers of Indian Ridge should ride or stroll over there and observe the improvement which has been made this season under the direction of the Indian Ridge committee.

Christ church choir boys enjoying week at Oak Island camp.

Charles Borah, former P. A. athlete, now at University of Southern California, won the A. A. U. 100-yard dash at Philadelphia in fast time of 9 4/5 seconds.

10 Years Ago—July 1941

Water situation still a problem although ban on use of lawn sprinklers has eliminated danger of depleting reservoir.

George F. Dufton of Burnham rd., appointed regular police officer.

Series of auto crashes here mar what would otherwise have been a safe and sane Fourth.

Police on watch for nude bathing at Foster's pond dam. Will make example of first offender they catch.

Bang-up Fourth in Ballardvale topped by big bonfire and horrors parade should set an example for the rest of the community. Celebration draws great crowd. If the Vale can do it, why can't the town, we query.

INTERNATIONAL WHIRLIGIG — By John Fisher

U. S. Weighs "Peace" Talk But Expands Its Arsenal

Washington is on the lookout for booby traps and time bombs in the Korean cease-fire affair.

Phony olive branches, waved by the tricky Reds, have deceived the world twice lately.

A few weeks after Moscow circulated the fraudulent Stockholm peace appeal in 1950, it sent North Koreans across the 38th parallel. The Warsaw peace congress dove was in the air last November when Red China struck American forces without warning.

The Russians now desire peace in the area where they feel pain. Some diplomats suspect that they want to ease their Chinese commitments so they can raise hob in Iran, Thailand, Indo-China, West Germany or another tension spot.

But the Kremlin's major purpose still is to ruin the free world's security effort, especially American rearmament.

We seek an objective beyond the Korean outcome. Our aim is lasting global peace, based on the power of the free world to maintain it. If we are shunted from this long-range course, we not only lose the war in Asia but travel toward greater catastrophe.

Planned Security Being Achieved

Our formula for unending security is double-barreled: 1. Emergency forces to blunt an attack in the near future. 2. Unsurpassed striking power from 1953 on, based on a permanent reserve of trained military manpower and tooled-up war production.

We plan to spend around 170 billion dollars to get the project underway in three years—about nine times more annually than Hitler spent on his six-year rearmament program.

The first phase includes General Eisenhower's task of coordinating the North Atlantic Treaty organization and a step up in our armed forces, culminating in a permanent Western defense system.

In the second bulwark—unmatched, permanent striking power—rests our chief hope of survival.

When the Reds invaded Korea, our army, navy and air force numbered about a million and a half men. Today we have nearly reached the goal of our planned normal strength of three and a half million.

Congress has just extended the draft to July 1, 1955 and authorized universal military training. These measures ensure an ever-growing military reservoir without robbing civilian fields or freezing too many men in a peace-time, standing defense system.

An adequate stockpile of weapons is being accumulated. We have at hand, in production or on the drafting boards all sorts of engines of war, ranging from rockets to guided missiles and tactical atomic weapons.

Building A Permanent Arsenal

We are increasing the quantity and improving the quality of strategic atomic weapons. The unofficial estimate in Washington is that we have more than 1,000 A-bombs—enough to earmark ten bombs for each Soviet industrial center with the likelihood that 70 percent would reach the target.

The blitzing of Germany, according to scientists, represented the equivalent of approximately 400 A-bombs of the now obsolete

Hiroshima type. Current bombs are at least six times as destructive as those dropped on Japan. It may be only coincidence that Russia started Korean peace feelers about the period hints were released in Washington that we were making progress toward the colossal hydrogen bomb.

We are acquiring bases from which the latest thunderbolts can be hurled at satellite jackals and into the heart of Russia. Territories of friendly nations encircle the Soviet bloc—such places as Greenland, free Europe, North Africa, portions of the Middle East and certain Pacific states.

Even more vital than the increase in weapons and air bases is a bold, novel plan of American origin—a stand-by arms industry, a sort of ever-normal arsenal. Many months elapsed and many first line defenders died in previous wars before plowshares were converted into swords. We cannot risk similar delay.

Red "Olive Branch" A Brambles

Our unique plan is that after we have helped arm the free world and keep up to that level, thenceforth we will maintain a stupendous arms-producing reserve capacity. Thus we will prevent wasting materials on excess weapons that soon become obsolete and have an industrial system always tooled, geared and ready to go into expanded assembly line action and turn out super-modern weapons on short notice.

Even if many Americans not yet have grasped the boldness and novelty of this survival plan, the Russian rulers have. Acting on the realization that the successful build-up of our military and war industrial reserve dooms their schemes of world domination, they are talking peace in an effort to persuade us to postpone, slow down or quit our security program.

The groundwork of the Korean cease-fire case was carefully laid long before Malik spoke. Communist propaganda since 1949 has been pitched to hold out to non-communists the temptation of a Soviet brand of peace as the alternative to the sacrifices required of a civilian economy in a rearmament race.

We Must Stay Strong

The Paris peace congress, staged by Reds in 1949, urged "peace-lovers" to block defense measures in their respective lands while Russia armed. The Stockholm appeal of March 19, 1950, asked everyone to solicit signatures to the petition to outlaw the A-bomb (then America's only safeguard).

The Warsaw congress of Nov. 19, 1950, demanded reduction of armed forces to a third or more of current strength (leaving Russia's relative military superiority intact.) The Berlin congress of Feb. 21, 1951, demanded a "Pact of Peace"

among the Five Great Powers with the threat that non-signing governments would be branded aggressors.

On March 12, 1951, the Supreme Soviet of the USSR enacted a law that punished persons guilty of war propaganda as "grave criminal malefactors." The satellites copied Russia. The Reds now urge the free world to adopt similar muzzles
(so none can warn of fresh communist aggression.)

These measures are designed to convince doubters that communist imperialism is not a threat to peace and to persuade gullible Americans to call a halt in our program for permanent peace based on our power to enforce it.

A satisfactory end to the Korean war is desirable, provided we are not swerved from our original rearmament purpose.

Pomp's To Hold Weenie Roast

A weenie roast will be at Pomp's pond the night Tuesday, July 25, which will include a camp fire, story and the showing of sports movies. This event will open a series of evening entertainments the beach lifeguards will during the rest of the season.

Attendance at the popular swimming spot keeps up, the water being well crowded every day. Attendance mark Sunday was 1,300 and Monday 1,300.

Regular classes are held each week for beginners, intermediate and adults with an additional class of adults starting tonight at 8 o'clock.

The girl scouts who are in charge of the day camp life flock to the beach each morning for instruction in swimming and water safety.

New sand has been added to the center of the bathing beach to help improve the area for bathing. A small snow fence has been set up to restrict some of the younger fry to shallow water.

A new feature has been added at the beach with the installation of a basketball court where leisure moments may be spent in practice or an occasional game.

Plans for future events are being arranged and a program for the closing days of the beach is being prepared which will be in keeping with the splendid pageants which have marked the conclusion of the bathing season in previous years.
